

THE CLOTHESLINE PROJECT

The Clothesline Project is a visual display of violence statistics that often go ignored. Each shirt is made by a survivor of violence or by someone who has been impacted by violence. The color of each shirt represents a different type of violence.

WHITE: Someone who died because of violence

YELLOW: Survivor of physical assault or domestic violence

RED, PINK, ORANGE: Survivor of rape or childhood sexual abuse.

BLUE or GREEN: Survivor of incest or childhood sexual abuse.

PURPLE: Someone attacked because of their sexual orientation

BROWN or GRAY: Survivors of emotional, spiritual, or verbal abuse

BLACK: Someone disabled as the result of an attack or someone assaulted because of a disability
